

Asks 5 British Engineers Be Convicted, May Dismiss One

Prosecutor Vishinsky insists five of six engineers on trial in Russia are "spies, saboteurs and bribers"—Suggests Gregory Be Freed—Mercy for Two of 11 Russian Defendants and "Highest Penalty" for Casev, Identified as "Main Saboteur" Is Requested.

Moscow, April 17 (AP).—Prosecutor Andrei Vishinsky today recommended dismissal of the charges against Albert W. Gregory but insisted on the conviction of five other British engineers of the Metropolitan-Vickers Electrical Company as "spies, saboteurs and bribers."

The prosecutor also asked mercy for two of the eleven Russian defendants—one of them, Madame Anna Kutuzova—on the ground that they had partially redeemed themselves by betraying the other defendants.

He demanded the "highest penalty" for Vassili Gusev, whom he identified as the "main saboteur," but left to the court's discretion the punishment to be assessed against the other prisoners including the Britons.

"The penalty for these offenses is shooting, and the crimes deserve it," Vishinsky declared in his address summing up the case for the court. "But our justice is Soviet justice. We do not cling too formally to the law."

Neither do we seek blood or vengeance. Our power is strong and cannot be shaken by these people, but if you consider it necessary to pronounce death your hands will remain firm."

Secondary Punishment.
The prosecutor in effect, however, recommended secondary punishment for five of the Englishmen by declaring: "The organizers of this conspiracy must be punished most severely."

He enumerated these organizers as Gusev, L. A. Sukoruchkin, N. G. Zerkov, A. T. Lobanov, M. O. Krasnolukhin and V. A. Sokolov.

He placed the five Britons—L. C. Thornton, William L. MacDonald, Allan Monkhouse, Charles Nordwall and John Cushey—in the "second group."

"I cannot maintain the charges against Gregory," Vishinsky added. In a five-hour conclusion to his summation, which was begun last night, the prosecutor heatedly berated five of the Britons, openly accusing Thornton and Nordwall of being agents of the British Secret Service.

Cushey Retorts.
Vishinsky inspired Cushey to make an angry but short-lived retort to his sharp thrusts from the prisoner's box. Described by the prosecutor as an experienced spy, who had confessed collecting information but refused to explain his activities, Cushey, his face pale with rage, jumped from his seat in the dock and lunged back at Vishinsky in Russian: "I did not confess."

Murphy of surprise swept the courtroom at this unexpected defiance of Soviet judicial procedure, but Judge Vassili Ulrich, using an electric bell, quieted the disturbance. Cushey resumed his seat and the prosecutor went back to his attack.

Nine defense attorneys speak tonight and tomorrow the defendants will have a chance to make final statements before the court retires for the verdict.

Work on the improvement of the Canadian channel through the Brockville Narrows was completed last year.

Akron, O., April 17 (AP).—The "no flight today" sign was hung on the U. S. S. Macon, the navy's new giant airship, for the fifth consecutive day today.

Officials at the airdock where workers only a week ago made the final preparations for the Macon's debut estimated at 10,000 persons the crowd that visited the 785-foot craft yesterday.

Million Jobs Gained By Adoption of Black Measure, Says Survey

Estimates before Congress placed the figure at 4,000,000—Based on data derived from survey of 1,000 manufacturing establishments.

By J. R. BRACKETT.

New York, April 17 (AP).—The National Industrial Conference Board estimated today that a thirty-hour week for American mining and manufacturing industry, as proposed in the Black bill in congress, would increase employment by about 1,000,000. Estimates before congress placed the figure at 4,000,000.

The board's estimate was based on reports from more than 1,000 manufacturing establishments, which in February employed about one-sixth of the industrial workers who had jobs.

The reports covered some 35 divisions of manufacturing industry and showed average hours per week to be 32.6 for February. Hours in the textile finishing group were 44, as compared to 16.9 in iron and steel. These two figures represented the range in the 35 divisions.

To arrive at its estimate of 1,000,000 additional employment, the conference board said it segregated "the reports of plants working longer than a thirty-hour week and computed the number of additional workers that presumably would be required to deliver the number of man-hours of work reported if the week were reduced to thirty hours."

"On the assumption," the board said, "that the plants covered represent a fair sample of manufacturing industry, the resulting figure for the additional number of workers that would be required by all manufacturing industry, if plants were held to a maximum of thirty hours, is 863,655."

"If mining industry, also covered by the Black bill, is assumed to be operating at about the same rate as manufacturing—a liberal assumption in the light of conditions in the mining industry—an additional 132,157 would be required, making a total of 995,812 that presumably would be employed as a result of the enactment of this measure."

SAVES HE CAN'T RAISE $100,000 FOR KIDNAPERS

Chicago, April 17 (AP).—John (Jake) Barber Factor, fighting extradition to England on charges of swindling investors out of $8,000,000, told authorities it would be impossible for him to raise the $100,000 reported to be demanded by kidnapers for the return of his 17-year-old son, Jerome.

"If they come down to around $10,000 it will be a different story," he declared as he explained how he couldn't raise a large amount of money.

Factor made his statement in his exclusive $100-a-day bungalow apartment atop a loop hotel. In the same hotel the management said he was maintaining two other suites and he was reported to have half a floor of another hotel leased under his name.

The youth, a Northwestern University student, was kidnapped from in front of his mother's apartment. Factor's first wife, last Wednesday night, he was a millionaire in his own name due to a trust fund established for him by Factor.

But, the kidnapping was only one of Factor's worries today. The other was being handled by his attorneys who left for Washington to appeal to the Supreme court the order to extradite him to England on the fraud charges. Four of his alleged associates already have been convicted in England and Factor paid $1,300,000 to settle a civil action growing out of the accusations.

Trial of 8 Negroes Postponed by Judge

Deatur, Ala., April 17 (AP).—Trials of eight negroes charged with attacking two white women on a freight train near Scottsboro, Ala., were postponed indefinitely today by Judge James E. Horton after he scored a purported criticism of Alabama jurymen in a published statement attributed to Samuel Lebowitz, chief of defense counsel.

This action came after Judge Horton had sentenced Heywood Patterson, first of the negroes to be tried and convicted, to die in the electric chair June 16.

Judge Horton read from the Deatur daily, published here, a statement from Attorney General Thomas E. Knight, Jr., of Alabama, taking issue with a purported statement of Lebowitz in a New York newspaper.

This printed statement quoted Lebowitz as follows:

"If you ever saw those creatures, those bigots, whose mouths are still in their faces, whose eyes pop out at you like frogs, whose chins drip to baccho juice, bewhiskered and filthy, you would not ask how they could do it."

This was purported to have been made in response to a question as to how the jury, trying the negro, Heywood Patterson, found him guilty on Sunday, April 9.

Knight in his reply, printed in the Deatur paper, had said:

"If this statement was made by Lebowitz it can only be taken as a sign of a loser. Particularly in view of the fact that in his address to the jury (in the Patterson case) he lauded the people of Morgan county and the members of the jury to the skies."

"I do not know whether the leading counsel for the defendant made the statement imputed to him," Judge Horton said. "I am not stating that he did, but so far as it might influence this trial, it could make little difference whether he actually said it or not. The effect will be the same. The published statement was uncalculated. It was addressed to a panel of highly intelligent jurors, and men who wished to do what was right in the case. The statement of itself of necessity must make impossible any just and impartial verdict. The accused negro must be a victim of this statement. His leading attorney would be a millionaire about his neck."

"No court regardless of its duty to see that trials must be fair and impartial could under such baneful influences permit the trial of this case to proceed at the present time. It therefore becomes the unquestioned duty of this court at the present time, to enter of its own motion a continuance of this case until such time when in its judgment a fair and impartial trial may be had."

Knight was on his feet immediately. And when the court recognized him in a voice shaking with emotion, he said "The state of Alabama conducted a fair trial of Heywood Patterson. I as a representative of the state of Alabama, conducted a fair trial."

"I cannot stand by and hear that jury maligned. No, we aren't bigots in the south. We tried these cases fair in Jackson county and we tried them fair here."

Japanese Armies Sweep Down North China Coastline

Chinese Troops Flee Under Heavy Attack of Japanese—First Extensive Drive Into International Treaty Area.

Peking, China, April 17 (AP).—Bombing planes and heavy artillery went into action on a large scale today as Japanese troops sent the entire Chinese army in the coast region of North China proper fleeing to the south bank of the Luan river. It was the first extensive Japanese advance into the Paiping-Tientsin international treaty area, where there are considerable American and other foreign interests. The Luan river is 65 miles southwest of Shanhaiwan and only 100 miles from Tientsin.

Changli, where an American Methodist Mission is situated, and numerous other towns to the north and northeast fell in rapid order to the Japanese and a Manchukuan army.

The Chinese had predicted this route to the sea since the fall of Shanhaiwan January 3. Their fears were increased a month and a half ago when the Japanese began sending all the power in the Great Wall, to the north, Japanese placed responsibility on the Chinese in advance of the action, declaring the move would not be made unless it was "forced" by attacks on the Japanese lines.

Japanese airplanes dropped about 100 bombs between one and three miles from the big seaport of Chinwangtao early Saturday to begin the real offensive. It was learned today, Chinwangtao, 10 miles southwest of Shanhaiwan, was occupied Saturday.

After the aerial bombardment, the Manchukuan troops attacked the Chinese lines with field guns, aided by range-finding airplanes. The first details of the battle reaching here today said the Chinese garrison fled at 5 p. m. Saturday and that Chinese police then handed over the city to the Manchukuan, the so-called "Fifth National Salvation Army" under General Li Chi-Chung.

Refugees in the area were reported streaming to Kailan mining compound, which is a British holding. British marines previously were reported landed in the city. The summer camp of the 15th United States Infantry, now occupied by a small guard, is nearby.

Japanese then stationed guards in the Chinwangtao Railway station. Residents of Changli, which was captured today, were reported pledging allegiance to the Japanese-sponsored Manchukuo government in Manchuria. Groups also were distributing pamphlets in Tientsin urging public support for Manchukuo.

STOLE HIS CLOTHES, TOOK RIDE HOME ON TRAIN

Chicago, April 17 (AP).—Ernest Luehr, 19, had one of those "the moment that seems like a year" decisions to make today when he had to choose between standing out in the cold drizzle or boarding an elevated train with only his underclothes for wearing apparel.

He got right on the train, despite giggles from passengers. Just before the train pulled in Luehr, son of a retired minister, told police he was seized by two negroes and stripped of hat, overcoat, suit and shoes.

Drys To Await Action Of State Beer Board

Albany, N. Y., April 17 (AP).—Beer conscious New Yorkers today awaited the results of the state beer control board's first meeting in the hope of learning what course the state will take on the question of selling the beverage at bars.

With the wide discretionary powers delegated to the board by the Dunnigan-Dunkel law, it has the authority to permit bars to operate unrestricted or to prohibit them entirely.

As the board members arrived in Albany today, they still had not indicated what their attitude will be. They have not even indicated whether they will determine their course at today's meeting.

It was generally believed at the Capitol that Chairman Edward P. Mulrooney would defer action on the question until some of the problems of setting up the licensing machinery were out of the way.

The board has before it such tasks as appointing one member to each of the upstate county boards and two members to the New York city board, assembling its staff and authorizing the printing of forms and blanks.

Another immediate problem is the setting up of permanent headquarters in the state office building and establishing branch offices in New York city and Buffalo.

Meanwhile, the state's dry forces are waiting the announcement of the board's plans for handling the licensing question before starting their program for putting local option into effect in dry communities.

"I really think that the state board is going to do some nice work," said Henry A. J. Castor, secretary of the law preservation party.

"The drys, however, are going to wait to see what the state board does. If it does away with the saloon and all that sort of thing and issues licenses in a properly restricted way, it may not be necessary to start the local option movement going. It all depends on whether the board does what the wets have been saying it is going to do."

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER
WASHINGTON—Word that J. Reuben Clark, ambassador to Mexico in the Hoover administration, had turned from politics to accept a high post in the Mormon church was received with more than casual interest by Washington political observers.

J. RUBEN CLARK

Utah's senior senator, William H. King, serving his third term, faces an election next year. Clark ran against King the last time, coming up from Mexico City, incidentally to do so.

Whether Clark has removed himself definitely from the political scene in Utah remains to be seen. His new position, next to the presidency of the Mormon church, is one of the two highest ranking offices in it.

A Record Of Success
However, former Senator Smoot of Utah was the ranking member of the "quorum of 12" of that same church while he was in the senate—in line for the church presidency itself.

Were the complexion of politics to change in Utah before next year Clark might stand in a good position to run against King again.

His record as ambassador to Mexico, where he went as successor to the late Dwight Morrow, was rated highly successful. Not a great deal was heard about him in Mexico City, but that according to the diplomatic way of judging things, might be regarded just another way of saying that he was doing a good job all the while.

At any rate, when he left his post at the close of the Hoover administration the President said of him: "Never have our relations (with Mexico) been lifted to such a high point of confidence and co-operation, and there is no more important service in the whole foreign relations of the United States than this."

Clark carried on at Mexico City the remarkable work that Dwight Morrow had done. Actually there are those at the state department in Washington who will tell you that Clark had much to do with the success of Morrow's policy in Mexico.

He had an important part in shaping Morrow's policy at any rate. And until Morrow left Mexico City to enter the senate Clark was the ambassador's right hand man in much of the most difficult negotiations over claims growing out of the long Mexican revolutionary cycle.

HIGH POSTAL RATES CUT FLOW OF MAIL

Return to Two-Cent Stamp Being Agitated

Washington—Advocates of an immediate return to the time-honored 2-cent postage stamp for letter mail are planning to press their fight in congress, but whether they will be successful is not to be highly debatable by opponents of such a move. The 3-cent stamp for letter mail made its appearance last July, and while it is admitted that there has been a considerable decrease in the volume of first-class mail since then, Post Office department officials have been preparing to back up with statistics their assertion that many millions of dollars more of revenue are being received now than would have been collected under the old rate.

Predicted Higher Revenue.
When congress was considering last summer the rate, which it later voted, former Postmaster General Brown predicted that an increase of 1 cent in the first-class postal rate, if applied to letters for delivery outside the post office of origin, would raise substantially $100,000,000, and that $25,000,000 or $30,000,000 more could be raised by increasing the rate on letters for delivery at the post office where they originate.

The argument of the opponents of the present rates is that such a result is not being realized, and that on the other hand there has been a tremendous decrease in the number of pieces of mail carrying first-class postage.

The Post Office department has sought to back up its position by a comparison of revenues at twenty principal offices from letters and first-class packages in the week of September 19-25, the latest for which the detailed figures are available, and the comparable revenues for the week of June 20-26, the last week during which the 2-cent stamp was used. The figures show that the revenue from this source from the twenty cities under the 3-cent rate was 32.55 per cent greater, despite a shrinkage of 11.63 per cent in the postage ounces of letter mail as between the periods compared.

Shift to Third Class.
That there was a considerable shift to third-class mail was shown by the fact that for the twenty principal cities in the week June 20-26 the revenue was $428,978 as compared with $380,912 in the week of September 19-25, an increase of $151,934 or 35.42 per cent.

The Post Office department has computed on the basis of all postal revenues from fifty selected cities for the first six months of the current fiscal year that the increases in first and second-class postal rates have resulted in additional revenue of $24,700,000.

Try Music and Ether Together as Anesthetic

Pittsburgh—How would you like a snappy jazz band with your ether? Or, perhaps you'd prefer something classical, like "Tannhauser"? Doubtless a questionnaire like above never will be re-enacted in any hospital emergency operating room, but the latest wrinkle offered to eliminate the fear of appendectomy or any other operation is music with the ether? The melody detracts the mind from what the surgeon is doing, scientists say, and relieves tension. Discussing the idea physicians at Pittsburgh hospitals said experiments so far had shown that for old persons, the music of their youth had the best results. "For a child something like 'Farmer in the Dell' was suggested."

U. S. War Vet to Live in Chateau Willed to Him

St. Louis, Mo.—Charles M. Zeigler of St. Louis has taken his family to France to make their home in a French chateau which he inherited as the result of his war-time friendship with the owner. Zeigler was quartered in the chateau, owned by Adolphe Bonnet, during the World war. The estate consists of a house and 50 acres of fertile soil located near Arhage, south of Paris. Zeigler, an insurance man, said he planned to stay in the chateau "for the duration of the depression, at least." He hopes not only to avoid the depression, but to build up a business abroad.

From Dog Pound to Canine Throne

Omaha, Neb.—Meet Tony, the dog, whose story is a true American epic. From the humblest of beginnings to a kingship—that's Tony's history. Less than a year ago Tony was an unwilling occupant of the dog pound at Auburn, Neb. There Charles Marchon, of Auburn, saw him. Tony had no license and was almost certain to be condemned to pay the supreme penalty. But Marchon bought his liberty. Today Tony is a king—king of the cool hunting dogs of Nebraska. He won the title at the annual coon hunt in Talsage, Neb., where he defeated two blood hounds. Tony has no royal ancestors—he's just dog.

CELEBRATE BIRTHDAY DAYS AT "OUR SCHOOL"

Dedicated to the note of the day at "Our School" at Stone Bridge. Realistic decorations, for parental distribution at Easter, were the subject of last week's handwork hour. Mrs. Charles Walden of Tenafly, N. J., Kingston, passed through Kingston who has been studying home handicraft at the Madison headquarters in New York city, was in charge of the project. Even the youngest grades swayed the flower-making which was attended by great enthusiasm and a welter of dual-tinted paper. Some of the results vied with nature.

The Easter recess began at the close of school on Thursday, April 13. There was a seasonal Easter egg hunt in place of the customary athletic schedule the last day of school. The children had also prepared a birthday cake and Jack Horner pie for Miss Margaret Schoonmaker, teacher of the senior grades, whose birthday happened to be coincident with the closing day. Assisting with these various projects were Mrs. Ashton Hart and Mrs. Harry Pearson, both of High Falls.

D. A. R. Leader Asks Order to Stand Alone

Washington, April 17 (AP).—Tried by their president general, Mrs. Russell William Magnus, to refrain from alignment with other organizations, Daughters of the American Revolution assembled today for their 42nd annual congress.

The appeal of Mrs. Magnus for the organization to stand on its own was given point by the fact that a number of patriotic organizations, not including the national D. A. R., will hold a mass meeting here tomorrow night against recognition of Soviet Russia.

"Guard well that which is ours, for better away your title, your identity, your prestige, or concept," Mrs. Magnus said.

She said the Daughters were determined to stand alone.

They are committed to a "well defined program for the national defense, embodying patriotic education" and that they would continue to adhere to a "100 per cent national defense program as America's insurance policy."

The called advance preparedness as "necessary for America as a nation and for departments for public safety, and insurance for personal protection."

"Many have been the resolutions which this society has passed relative to non-recognition of Russia," she said, "many chapters in states have recently reiterated this same type of resolution. I am confident this congressional session will wish to again pass such action."

"I stand shoulder to shoulder with you in not recognizing a country which has for its avowed purpose the destruction of our system of government."

These three boys have all done exceptionally well in their work. Lawrence Stark, Wallkill, was elected vice president of the Ulster and Rock County, an organization for boys specializing in animal husbandry. Charles Barnett, of St. Remy was elected treasurer of the same organization, and Harold Fischer has been chairman of the publicity committee. Harold Fischer was his class in showing Holstein cows at the annual stock show. Charles Barnett won his class in showing Jersey cows. They stood second and third, respectively, in the grand championship showmanship contest. All three boys have been asked to be members of the state school judging team that will compete at state fair next fall.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

Lima, O.—Eggs, Incidentally, were part of 24-month-old Stanley Plank's Easter morning breakfast.

A few minutes later his mother discovered the child had swallowed poison.

Physicians said the eggs had acted as an antidote and he would recover.

Maybe He Shivered

South Bend, Ind.—It was a cold-blooded holdup. Frank Slesar told police, but he couldn't keep cool enough to shoot straight, and the bandit got away with the cash.

Slesar, a meat market manager, reported a gunman locked him in the ice box, where he had a small caliber gun hidden. He gripped the cold steel and fired through the ice box window, but the shots went wild, and the gunman left, unharmed.

He Was Flabbergasted

Duluth, Minn.—Deputy Sheriff Merrill Buford was puzzled.

For two weeks every time he'd have a date to see someone he'd turn up a day late.

Finally he discovered that the date book on which he had been making notes was for 1932 instead of 1933.

Excuse For Wedding Bells

Milwaukee, Wis.—Jerry Brown and Julia Redrick, who say they have been married nineteen years, are going to get married all over again tomorrow, because they have been unable to furnish the relief department documentary proof of their wedding in Rock Island, Ill. Jerry is jobless and the department demands proof of matrimony before furnishing emergency relief.

Surprising The Boys

Oklahoma City.—"I wanted to surprise the boys back home," said Maj. N. D. McGinley, 33, commander of the Union Soldiers' Home here, after his marriage to Mrs. Gertrude Harris, 60.

"I'll take her back as a new assistant superintendent."

One Is Enough

Chicago.—One life of 76 years is enough, in the opinion of Clarence Darrow.

"I would not like to live my life again," he said when questioned about his 76th birthday anniversary today.

Police In The Dark?

Detroit.—Even the chandeliers were taken by burglars who invaded the home of Mrs. Dora Strzyzewski.

Police said it probably was no coincidence that Mrs. Strzyzewski had hidden $700 in one of the light fixtures.

A Treasure Hunt

Chicago.—An old junk yard is the scene of a treasure hunt.

Detectives are trying to find $5,000. Mrs. Valeryk, Walozynski said she remembered where it was too late—that the money was in a lot of volumes and magazines sold to a junk collector for ten cents.

An Ear For Music

Pittsburgh.—Joseph Anderson rushed to the street as a gas explosion tore the wall out of the house next door.

Anderson's own home caught fire. He went back, groped through smoke, brought out a radio and three canaries—all that survived of the family belongings.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Margaret Lindsay proved that Hollywood can be fooled, but her experiences have convinced her that it's more comfortable not to try it.

Margaret has been in Hollywood about a year, sporting a nice English accent and an English background fabricated for her by a British press agent who thought she would do better in America as a foreigner than as a native of Dubuque, Iowa.

Not long ago she confessed all. "And what a relief! You've no idea," she says, "what it means to pose as something you're not!"

Re-Imported

Margaret Kies of Dubuque went to London, had a little stage experience, and returned as Margaret Lindsay of London. From the New York stage she was brought to Hollywood as an "English actress."

"I wanted to tell them then," she says, "but the publicity had gone too far. So I spent my time dodging Hollywood publicity people and all the publicity which had me out. Once I was cornered and I made up an elaborate story about my home in England. After that I was afraid to talk to anyone else because I might forget what I'd told the first one!"

It was as an English actress that she was tested and won her role—the girl on the Titanic—in "Cavalcade." She was part of its "all-English cast."

"I didn't know it was supposed to be all-English at first," she declares. "When I found out, I couldn't decide whether to tell them or not. I worried a little, and had to keep on dodging people."

Ruthless Ruthlessness
"Once some former schoolmates of mine were dancing where I was, and I knew they recognized me. But I stared vacantly, and they didn't speak. I had to be rude a hundred times for four some one would find out about me and my true story."

"I've explained to most of them now, and I think they understand. But—oh, it was terrible. What a relief to claim Dubuque again!"

At The Theatres

Kingston: "Gabriel Over the White House"—A compelling and convincing performance by that actor, Walter Huston, makes this timely talkie thought provoking and entertaining at one and the same time. It's the story of a politician, shoved into the highest office accorded an American citizen through the direct aid of a strong political party, and who shakes off the yoke of the party leaders on assuming the presidency and proceeds to make the world safe for democracy. There is a lot of idealism in this show, and those people who follow the editorial beliefs of William Randolph Hearst will find this talkie done in that vein.

But the electrifying performance of Walter Huston as the dictatorial president is the important thing to witness, and the political creed that the talkie follows is only the background to aid Mr. Huston in his noteworthy portrayal. Action, excitement, the pressure of present day events, optimism, and faith are all to be found in this story during the course of its telling. Karen Morley, Franchot Tone, Walter Byron, and Dickie Moore are all featured players in the large supporting cast. Something to see.

Orpheum: "Phantom President" and "Two Fisted Law"—George M. Cohan makes his screen debut in the first picture, a clever story in a musical vein that tells what happens when a president has a double substitute for him. Jimmy Durante and Claudette Colbert are also in the cast. "Two Fisted Law" is a western thriller with Tim McCoy. Broadway: "Me and My Girl" and "The Outsider"—Feature number one is a laughable comedy offering with Joan Bennett and Spencer Tracy sharing equal honors in the featured roles. In this fast moving story, Mr. Tracy plays the part of a crackling policeman, and Miss Bennett is a hard boiled girl who falls in love with him. Others in the cast are George Walsh, J. Farrell MacDonald and Henry E. Wald. "The Outsider" is a peculiar story, featuring a group of men screen faces.

THESE puzzles we have married! How disturbingly efficient they are. Patiently they sit across the dinner table from us and listen to our evening complaints—short-handed at the office, chief cranky, customer spoiled golf date, stenographer late, letters misfiled—women have all the best of it! Then they smile riddles.

If you could see the little woman in the morning after you leave for the office! Children to bundle off to school, meals to plan, marketing to do, laundry to send, buttons to put on, tears to mend, dozens of trips to the front and back doors, lunch, squabbles to settle, a cut finger to bandage.

Financial and Commercial

New York, April 17 (AP)—The stock market began the new week with a moderate reaction today, in sympathy with principal commodity markets.

Trading was in light volume, and market analysts were encouraged by the fact that the market had reacted to the decline in the early hours of the week, and a number of issues partially recovered losses of a point or two.

American Telephone, still under the influence of its first quarter report, lost 2 points and failed to rally. Union Pacific lost 1/2, and Santa Fe nearly as much. Similar reactions appeared in Coca Cola and McKesson. Food shares, with few exceptions, held about steady and gold mining issues were firm, but other major groups were heavy. U. S. Steel sagged a major fraction, and issues losing a point or so included American Can, Case, Eastman, Standard of N. J., Allied Chemical, Corn Products, American Tobacco B, American Sugar, U. S. Smelting, International Silver and others. Homestake Mining rose 1/2.

Foreign exchanges mostly stable.

Galaxy Of Radio Stars To Appear For Legion Show

One of the most attractive programs of entertainment ever put on in Kingston, starting several radio celebrities, is scheduled for Friday, April 28, at Kingston High School Auditorium under the auspices of the American Legion which will use the proceeds for its relief fund.

Stars of the air to perform for the Legion are:

Little Jack Little.
Col. Stoopnagle and Bud.
Tony Wona.
Vaughn DeLeath.
Keenan and Phillips.
The Hickory Nuts.

Commander Sam N. Mann has been planning for some time to bring the above named entertainers here to perform for the American Legion and completed negotiations today with Eddie Wolf, manager of the stars.

That the show will be well patronized and net a nice sum for relief work among ex-servicemen is a certainty. Commander Mann believes, because of the popular demand for personal appearance of radio artists, besides the opportunity offered to help a worthy cause.

There will be a matinee and evening performance at prices exceedingly low for such an array of talent. Tickets can be procured from members of Kingston Post, at the Legion building from the custodian, and at the door on the gate of the show.

Catch the Boos They Are Yours

A curious old law disappointed the butler of a mansion near Dunfermline, Scotland. A swarm of bees came and settled on an ancient "mounting stone." The owner of the house gave them to the butler, but he was afraid to capture them and asked a neighboring beekeeper to do it for him. The beekeeper put them in a hive and kept them, so the butler sued for their return. The judge, however, said that the law on the point was quite plain and read that bees could be appropriated by the first person who took possession of them and gave them a home. The law originated in ancient Rome—Montreal Herald.

Daggers Drawn

Previous to the seventeenth century, when cutlery, more or less as we know it, came into use, the dagger carried by every man served all purposes—from eating to fighting. Men had their own ready way of settling their differences in those days; a quarrel usually meant a fight, and knives were crossed with a vengeance. Hence the expression "At Daggers Drawn." Even today many people still see in a harmless pair of crossed table-knives the sign of a quarrel and bloodshed.

Rivers' Volume

The Amazon is much the largest river in the world in point of volume. It has been estimated that it discharges between 4,000,000 and 5,000,000 cubic feet of water per second. The Mississippi's maximum discharge is estimated at 2,300,000 cubic feet per second, while the St. Lawrence system at Niagara falls has an average flow of 280,000 a second, and at the mouth of the river something less than twice that amount.

Lights of NEW YORK

An actor, standing in a world drama, recited a paragraph about the actor. Back of it, another actor about, taking the next street. The actor and his wife accepted a bedchamber in the rear of their home and as he frequently worked at night she became nervous and had iron bars put over the windows. When he came home he frequently, before retiring, demonstrated the mischief he had done that day. The neighbors told their real estate agent that they were going to break their lease.

"Nobody," they said, "can be expected to live in this place. There is a crazy man next door who rants and roars and who is so violent that they have him locked in a room with bars at the windows. Sometimes he might get loose."

No man knows more stories of the stage or tells them better than Ernest Lawford. He says that Sir Henry Irving once was presiding at a big public dinner when a card was handed him bearing the information that Sir Goodwin was among those present. Sir Henry said:

"I have just learned we have with us tonight a great American actor, a man famous in two countries, a celebrated wit whose name is a household word. I call upon him to rise, and present to you Mister—Mister—Mister Sir Goodwin."

Several years ago a very rich man, who had in his day made and lost several fortunes, decided that whatever happened he never would be broke again. He therefore created a trust fund of considerable amount. The income was to go to certain specified charities, unless he needed it himself, when, by the terms of the trust, he was to have first call. I don't know, under present conditions, just who is getting that income now.

The wife of Jesse L. Lasky, of morning picture fame, is Bessie Lasky, the painter. She really makes a vocation of her work with the brush and canvas and her paintings have been exhibited in galleries in New York, Paris and London. Some of them have been purchased by the Newark museum. Her first paintings were of the Mojave desert. Mrs. Lasky is a slim brunette, who looks far too young to be the mother of her son, Jesse Lasky, Jr.

If you ever wish to locate Reinald Werrenrath and can't trace him by listening for his barytones, look for him in an antique shop. One of his hobbies is bargaining for broken-down looking antiques and then fixing them up and polishing them until they look hale and hearty again. Mr. Werrenrath is good at backgammon, no beginner at poker, and plays solitaire by the hour in a perfectly honest manner. He likes mystery stories and has been known to read them at the dinner table, becoming so engrossed that it is almost possible to feed him spinach, which he abominates. On days when "Music in the Air" has no matinee, he takes a complete rest by going to the theater. His favorite movie actress is Greta Garbo, and he also likes stammered claims.

Blood Pressure Is Not

Now Held Death Sentence

London.—Sufferers from high blood pressure, your physician's diagnosis is not a death sentence. Just carry on your usual mode of life—do not worry. You can still go on living beyond the three-score years and ten. You can still play golf, and you can go on walking, riding, and doing your usual exercises, provided, of course, they are not too strenuous.

Such is the reassuring picture painted by Sir Thomas Lewis in his new book, "Diseases of the Heart."

The average expectation of life, he finds, is from ten to twenty years after the start of symptoms, which is usually between the fiftieth and sixtieth years.

The great point, Sir Thomas emphasizes, is to avoid mental anxieties. Sleep is necessary, as much as one can reasonably get.

Kiddies' Preference for

Mother, Dad Settled

Freud raised an unholy furor with his theory that all children are attached to the parent of opposite sex; and upon this theory he built the whole structure of the "Oedipus complex," says the Modern Psychologist.

An official of the University of Minnesota, one who is both skeptical and practical, decided to test the thing. So he sent out questionnaires—that ancient method that leads to more dispute than proof. He forwarded them to parents of 3,175 children, of whom 1,825 were boys and 1,350 girls.

The answers, if valid, indicate that Freud is all wrong, and that his hypothesis, which he defends so strenuously and vituperatively, seems not to be based on fact. For the questionnaires showed no particular preference for the opposite sex. There does seem to be a slightly closer attachment toward the mother in about half the cases, but even this vanishes as the children grow older.

However, the Adlerian psychologists might draw a few crumbs of comfort from the results of this questionnaire: they indicate that jealousy is most frequent when attention is given to another child.

An Old hat Bury Port
The town of Saleniki, in the Balkans

on the Aegean sea, has existed for 2,500 years and during that time it has been the scene of many revolutionary changes and other disturbances, including a number of earthquakes. It has a very considerable population.

After Greece was proclaimed a republic a human deluge of Greek refugees left Turkey for their homeland and Saleniki census takers added about 60,000 Greeks to the city's population. The free port district of Saleniki is utilized by the Balkan states that have no suitable sea outlet. Over the Saleniki quays pass for export grain and flour, silk cocoons, chrome, manganese and iron, live stock and their products, opium and tobacco from Greek and Balkan sources.

Roman Names

A surname, in the derivation of the word, is an "extra name," and the general use of surnames as family names did not develop until the Thirteenth century. The Roman "cognomen," however, was equivalent to the modern surname or family name. A Roman of social position ordinarily had three names, the last being his cognomen and the name by which his family was known. Thus, in Marcus Tullius Cicero, the first name is the praenomen, or personal name; the second the nomen, or name of the gens or clan; and the third the cognomen, the name of the family.

or branch of the gens. This system of names long antedated Christian times.

A "Bullet" of Water

The "sharpshooter" is the popular name given to a fish which is quite common in the streams of Siam. It secures its food by projecting a globe of water at its desired morsel which is generally some insect on a leaf or twig overhanging the stream. The fish can throw the big drop a distance of 10 feet but its aim is almost unerring at 4 feet. In the back of its mouth there is a cavity which holds the water and when the fish sights its dinner it takes careful aim and then opening its mouth discharges the globe of water by a quick compression of its gills.

Dumas' Musketeers Were

People, Not Legendary

There is such frequent distortion of the names of the glorious and gallant characters of the story-books—most of them are proved to be no more than creatures of the imagination—that many persons will be embarrassed when they realize for the first time that historians are able to reveal actual beings certain of the famous figures that they themselves had always thought to be legendary.

Dumas' Musketeers were actual people, after all, says the Illustrated London News. Some of the heroes in which they were born and reared survive in South France today. The great d'Artagnan's real name was Charles de Batz de Castelmore, and he was born about 1625 at the chateau of that name near Lorient (Gers).

His mother came from the Chateau d'Artagnan on the borders of Gascony and Normandy. Charles de Batz and his elder brother habitually used their mother's name to avoid confusion with their father, Bertrand de Batz, Seigneur de Castelmore.

The Chateau d'Artagnan came into the hands of the poet, Robert de Montesquiou, who entertained Dumas there in 1910, and sold it in 1913 for 170,000 francs. The remains of the property were recently disposed of for 30,000 francs.

Tagging Major League Bases

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Although no satisfactory explanation has been found as far as the phenomenon, the major league pitchers this spring are well "tagged" of the batters. The showing of the moundmen in general has been little short of sensational.

Since the campaign started last Wednesday, 14 games have been played and 11 times one team or another has been limited to five hits or fewer. What is more remarkable, fingers of nine different teams have figured in this stellar pitching; several others have just missed the five-hit mark. A lot of the clouting was due to individual work of a few players rather than to whole teams.

Yesterday two fingers hit the low-est mark made so far this season—two hits—and another pitched a five-hit game and lost it.

Lucas and Reilly the Stars

Charles "Red" Lucas, veteran right hander of the Cincinnati Reds, limited the St. Louis Cardinals to a pair of singles and let only one runner reach third as the Reds won their season's first game, 7 to 0. John Reilly of the Phillies equalled the feat against the Boston Braves, who finally got their season started after four days' delay, and the Phil won 5-0. Fritz Kneib was the only batter who could touch Reilly's curve, getting a double and a single.

Walter (Huck) Davis, Boston's hurler, was the "hard luck guy." He gave the Phillies only five blows but two pairs of them were bunched at the proper moments to produce runs.

A 14-Inning Tie

In Brooklyn the first duel between the Dodgers and the Giants was halted by darkness after 14 innings with the score tied at 1-1. Joe Shauts and Carl Hubbell each pitched eleven innings and gave one run and eight hits apiece. The tally of Shauts, who retired after straining a leg muscle running out a hit, was unearned. It came as the result of an error by Al Lopez. Hack Wilson, who celebrated his debut by making three hits, scored Brooklyn's run after clouting a triple.

Wesley Ferrell, aided by Clint Brown, recorded the day's best pitching in the American League to give the Cleveland Indians a 7-1 victory over the St. Louis Browns. Ferrell gave only four blows before he injured his right shoulder striking out Jack Burns in the seventh and Brown allowed only two more.

Third Homer for Gehrig

The Yankees, as usual, preferred home runs to strikeouts in clanking up their fourth straight triumph. Lou Gehrig walloped his third homer with Babe Ruth on base in the first inning and gave the world's champions the working margin with which they turned back the Philadelphia Athletics 5-4. Bob Johnson, one of the A's clouting rookies, hit a four-bagger and a double to drive in two runs.

Rain and wet grounds eliminated three games from yesterday's program. The Pittsburgh-Chicago National League game was postponed as were the Boston-Washington and Chicago-Detroit contests in the American.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

The revenge of John Ross Roach, the goalie with a fixation, was one of big league hockey's best ballyhooed dramas of the 1932-33 season until the playoffs leading up to the battle for the classic Stanley Cup.

Roach, as most everyone knows, was the star net-tender of the New York Rangers until he lost favor with Manager Lester Patrick a year ago, for alleged infractions of the rules during the cup contest. Forthwith John was traded to the Detroit Redwings, returned to form and won recognition by being selected for the all-star National League team.

Particularly was Roach poison to his old pals, the Rangers. During the regular season his goal-minding was responsible for two shutout victories by Detroit over the New York stars. Roach's revenge was the topic of the circuit until the two teams came together in the playoffs, for the right to play Toronto in the finals.

Whereupon the whole show turned into a last-act blow-up for our hero. The Rangers let loose a scoring blast, featuring Cecil Dillon and the Cook brothers, that offset all previous indignities suffered at Roach's hands, gave them two straight over the Redwings and put them on the road to the world championship.

Ski-Running New Sport

Before we leave the snow or ice-covered scenes for the shady confines of the baseball press coops, attention should be directed to the development of a new and exciting winter sport, called ski-running, but better described as Downhill or Down-mountain ski-racing, depending on whether you have merely an incline of the ground or some real honest-to-goodness mountains to slide down.

Up around Dartmouth college, where they go in for rugged activities, three of these ski races were held during March, with such success and consequent enthusiasm that the college plans adding the events to the winter sports curriculum and supporting a motion to make it an attraction for the next Olympic calendar.

It was in the last of the three races, held at Berlin, N. H., that Halliwell, of the Harvard Halliwell, broke both legs. Another boy broke a leg in the second race, as an indication that there are sufficient risks for the thrill-seekers in following narrow, winding courses, with hair-pin turns and a variety of obstacles.

Young Hillman Shines

The star of this new winter sport proved to be Harold Hillman, 17-year-old son of Dartmouth's famous track coach and ex-Olympic hurdler, Harry L. Hillman.

Young Hillman, now a student at Clark School, Hanover, scored a first, second and third in the three races for the winning low total of six points.

He finished second to Henry Woods of Dartmouth, the national champion, in one race despite losing a ski on the last turn and finishing with only 50 per cent of his customary foot equipment. Woods won this race by a fifth of a second in 8:01, lowering Hillman's record for the Dartmouth Outing Club's course.

Remodeled Garments In May Style Show

Old garments like new will be featured in a style show given at the annual meeting of the District Federation of Home Bureaus to be held in Kingston May 3 and 4. Miss Margaret Morehouse, clothing specialist from the State College of Home Economics, at the last lesson in the course in remodeling of old garments, made tentative plans with the class of local leaders who will arrange for the style show.

Styles of yesterday, today and tomorrow will be shown in the style review. A beautiful blue taffeta of the early sixties, a handsome satin gown of a later period and other interesting old fashioned garments will be featured. Then will follow lady's modern gowns—all made by members of the Home Bureau classes in remodeling of old garments.

What will the "tomorrow" in the style review reveal? So far, this feature seems to be veiled in deep mystery. All of the stylists of the county are asked to send original ideas to Mrs. Howard Lewis, under whose direction the success of the "tomorrow" of the style show is assured.

Guests at the District Federation meeting are expected from Warren, Rensselaer, Saratoga, Orange, Suffolk and Nassau counties.

Those present at the class in remodeling of old garments who are assisting in plans for the style show, were: Mrs. Walter Davenport, Accord; Mrs. Elmer Smith, Kyserike; Mrs. Henrietta Thomas, Flatbush; Mrs. Isabel D. Tabour and Mrs. Herbert Bell, Milton; Mrs. Myron Shults and Mrs. Frank Black, Modena; Mrs. Willard Jenkins, Mrs. Harold DuBois and Mrs. Charles Young, New Paltz; Mrs. R. Markle, Bloomington; Mrs. George Slicker, Shokan; Mrs. Joseph W. Pratt, and Mrs. Henry Green, Stone Ridge; Mrs. Hugh Ferguson, Lake Katrine.

Miss Margaret Morehouse, of the State College of Home Economics, will direct the "today" of the style review, explaining the transformations in garments from the old to the new with the most involved. This feature of the District Federation meeting program will be given the afternoon of May 3rd. It is hoped that a large group of city and county people will reserve this date for attendance at the Federation meeting.

COMMUNITY CENTER MEETING INTERESTING

The last meeting of the Kingston Chapter of Hadassah held at the Community Center proved to be one of the most interesting of the year.

Rabbi Bloom of this city was especially inspiring in his talk. In addition to this speaker, Mrs. Siegler of the Newburgh Chapter was kind enough to come up and contribute some of her excellent suggestions for the future welfare of the club.

Among the many favorable suggestions were the Friendship Quilt and the members own Cook-book. These were both enthusiastically accepted and plans are now afoot for carrying out the ideas.

All members and their friends are impatiently awaiting the spring dance to be held on Wednesday, April 26, at the Community Center.

MAKING FLOWERS BLOOM BY ARTIFICIAL LIGHT

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEY
(Associated Press Science Editor.)

Lafayette, Ind., April 17 (AP)—Cutting about 10 hours a night of the "sleep" of asters, dahlias, snap peas and pansies, Purdue University horticulturalists announced today a commercially successful method of making these flowers bloom in winter as profusely as in mid-summer.

The dahlias are bigger than the summer blooms, and the pansy flower in eight to ten times the usual profusion.

The "sleep" of plants in their condition during the darkness of night when lack of light stops most of synthesis of sugars and other plant materials.

In the Purdue experiment stath greenhouses the flowers were allowed to go to "sleep" as usual at sundown on winter days, but after about ten hours rest in complete darkness the flowers were awakened by artificial light. These lights burned until sunrise, giving the plants the equivalent of 20-hour working day.

But evidently there are "unwritten" rules about hours among the greenhouse plants, for some produce flowers with one set of night hours while others require a different schedule.

About 40 varieties of flowers have been studied so far under the night lights. All showed that they can be made to bloom out of season, as several gave promise of excellent summer splendor, after scientists find out more precisely how much light each species needs.

Birds' Suicide Flight.

Mystery to Canadians.

High over Quebec there soared recently for the first time in many years great flocks of fat, black and white sea birds, flying toward the St. Lawrence river basin and death. They were Arctic murrelets (also called gulls), cousins of the auks.

The cause of their periodic suicide flight is a mystery which Canadian ornithologists hope to solve, says The Magazine.

A crowd-sized bird with set-back legs which make it stand upright like a penguin, the murre breeds in colonies on Arctic cliff ledges. It lays an egg pointed at one end so that it rolls in a circle and does not fall off the ledge.

Once hunted for oil, as were the extinct great auks, murrelets have grown scarce and are now protected by treaty between the United States and Canada. Only Indians and Eskimos may eat their eggs or kill them for food.

Like the little auk, the murre feeds on ocean crustaceans and starfish in land. An official of New York's Bronx zoo thought the murre's death flight might be caused by a cyclical failure in their food supply.

Woodman Tells What to Do When Lost in Forest.

A New York state woodman offers the following advice on what to do when lost in the woods:

"A compass, of course, is the best bet, but one may by accident or carelessness fail to have it with him when he gets into trouble. In this event, the most practical aid I know of is as follows, especially in country that is even slightly hilly or rolling:

"On such terrain one never goes more than a short distance without striking a tiny rivulet, or even a dry watercourse. Follow any such watercourse implicitly, as it is bound to carry one to a larger stream, which in turn should be followed to the nearest habitation.

"All experience shows that settlements follow the watercourses. It is in the valleys that the richest farmland is found, and so for this and other practical reasons—at least in a good part of the United States—this plan of following the watercourses will probably bring one to nearer help than any alternative."—New York Herald Tribune.

THE SCHOOL CHILD'S LUNCH.

Sweet Sandwiches.

When an order is sent to the lunch, an auxiliary sweet sandwich may be added upon the Commensal Information Service of the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets. This may be raisin bread, orange bread, or not bread buttered, and a sweet filling, such as jelly, jam, fresh butter, conserve, or honey, may be used.

A good fruit mixture for a sandwich filling is made by grinding dried fruit, adding chopped nuts, if desired, and moistening with lemon juice or fruit juice.

Other sweets suitable for a school child's lunch includes plain cake, cookies and confectionery.
